CHAPTER ONE

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Over the last nine years, the Council of Governors has hosted seven (7) Annual Devolution Conferences in various parts of the country, which have generated conversations around certain thematic areas of concern to the Counties, nationally and globally. Lessons are drawn from the discussions that inform National and County governments' actions. The conferences have attracted National and International delegations that have come to learn about issues regarding the transition to a devolved system of government and appreciate the impact that devolution has had on the people of Kenya. Due to their international nature, the conferences have each attracted over 5000 delegates.

The conferences have had different themes, as enumerated below:

1. The first conference, held in Kwale County, was “One Year into Devolution: Celebrating the Milestones, Confronting the Challenges.”
2. The second conference, held in Kisumu County, was “Celebrating the Gains of Devolution.”
3. The third conference, held in Meru County, was “The Promise of Devolution: Consolidating the gains and looking into the future”
4. The fourth conference, held in Nakuru County, was “Devolution - Transforming lives: Tell your story!”
5. The fifth conference, held in Kakamega County, was “Sustainable, productive, effective and efficient governments for results delivery.”
6. The sixth conference, held in Kirinyaga County, was “Deliver. Transform. Measure. Remaining Accountable.”
7. The seventh and final annual devolution conference, held in Makeni County, was “Multi-Level Governance for Climate Action.”

The conferences resulted in the development of communiqués that were tracked and implemented. Some of the strategic interventions because of the conferences include strengthening legislation and policy for devolution, good governance, adoption of a performance management framework for enhanced service delivery, county commitment to climate action, and strengthened intergovernmental relations among others.

During the 6th annual and final devolution conference, it was agreed that the conferences would be hosted after every two years marking the end of the era of annual conferences. This was to ensure that all the stakeholders had sufficient time to fully implement the resolutions that emanate from the important international event as it was realized that one year was a short period to action and track the commitments made by the different institutions represented.

Service delivery has been a key principle of devolution. Over the last decade, county governments have revolutionized service delivery in their respective regions. The devolved units have provided a closer access gateway to public services to the common citizen. The reach of devolution in service delivery has been immense ranging from the provision of community health services to local administration and agricultural extension services.

Reflecting on the progress made in service delivery, it is clear that devolution has enhanced public service delivery. It is important to celebrate these key milestones as we strategize on the way forward. The plenum discussed the successes of devolution in effective service delivery in the health, agriculture, urban planning and trade sectors. The plenum also identified areas of improvement to enhance service delivery in the future.

b) Digitalization

Technological advancement in the 21st Century has impacted every aspect of society. There is no doubt that technology will continue to shape the world in the foreseeable future. County governments have leveraged digital tools in the execution of their mandate. Digital tools such as health information systems, digital surveillance in agriculture, Land information management system, digitalized licensing platforms and satellite have been essential operationalization of devolution. Digitalization provides limitless potential in the execution of the devolved functions.

The plenum discussion provided a forum for counties to share the best digital tools that have effectuated the operationalization of devolution. Additionally, the discussions identified how counties can adopt technologies to enhance data sharing, and data management and use data to adopt data-driven policies. Further, the plenum deliberated on; the implications of data privacy laws, risks associated with the adoption of digital tools and the potential of national and inter-county fibre –optic networks in enhancing devolution.

c) Innovation and Performance Management

Since the inception of devolution, innovation has been important for counties to overcome unforeseen challenges and be resilient in the face of these hurdles. CHAPTER TWO

2.0 PLENUM AND BREAK AWAY DISCUSSIONS AND RESOLUTIONS

This chapter highlights of the various plenum and break away discussions and the resultant resolutions.

2.1 Sub-Theme I: Strengthening Effective Service Delivery in Counties through Performance Management: Reaching the Last Mile

Moderator: Ms. Mary Neto, Public Service Expert

Address by Tony Blair - Executive Chairman, Tony Blair Institute for Global Change

Tony Blair, the Executive Chairman for the Tony Blair Institute for Global Change underscored the need to have in place the right policies, highly motivated and competent personnel and the right performance management tools to strengthen effective service delivery.

Governor Mutahi Kahiga - Governor, Nyeri County

The Governor gave insight into the implementation of Performance Contracting in Nyeri County which was made possible with the technical assistance from the Council of Governors (COG). In Nyeri County performance contracting is aligned to the County Integrated Development Plans (CIDP) as well as the Governor's manifesto. The key success of performance contracting has been the establishment of the Governor's service delivery unit to support the continuous monitoring of projects. Additionally successful implementation of performance contracting has ensured little or no pending bills in the County.

The Governor further underscored the importance of performance management and reporting. Further, the Governor reiterated the need to determine weights to the various performance indicators and reward good performance. He gave an example of Nyeri County where good performance is reward with trophies and promotions.

Amb. Salma A.Ahmed - Commissioner, Public Service Commission

The Commissioner highlighted the need to leverage on Human Capital in Performance Management. She further emphasised on the need to establish norms and standards for service delivery at the County level. Additionally, the Commissioner encouraged

County Public Service boards to leverage on various Performance Management tools made available by the Public Service Commission which can be accessed from the Commission's website.

Ms. Anne Njoki Wangombe - Principal Secretary, State Department for Performance and Delivery Management, Office of the Prime Cabinet Secretary

The Principal Secretary highlighted the importance of performance management in the public sector. Performance Management she stated was rolled out in the 3rd administration, that is, President Mwai Kibaki's administration where mainstreaming of performance management was adopted across the public service. This stirred up economic growth through completion of major infrastructural projects among them housing and roads projects, provincial headquarters among other as well as improvement of service delivery which resulted in Kenya being awarded the UN Public Service award. The 5th administration under President William Ruto is working towards improvement/reintegration of Performance Management in the Public Service.

On how Counties can leverage on performance management the Principal Secretary reiterated the need for Counties to conduct Capacity Building on Performance Management additionally counties could enrol into the automated performance management systems as well as conduct multi stakeholder engagements to mainstream performance management in the Counties. The Principal Secretary informed the plenary that the State Department would soon be coming up with a Bill on Performance Management that would be subjected to stakeholder participation. It would be helpful to have the input of the Counties in the Bill.

In closing the Principal Secretary congratulated the Counties of Kakamega, Makueni and Nyeri who are implementing performance management and encouraged other Counties to implement performance management.

Hon. Philemon Sabulei, MCA - Chairperson, County Assemblies Forum (CAF)

The Chairperson of the County Assemblies Forum (CAF) presented on the role of County Assemblies in Performance Management and service delivery to the citizenry. The role of the County Assemblies can be summarised as follows:

- 1) Legislative role: County Assemblies provide a legal framework of managing the county resources and service delivery
- 2) Oversight role: County Assemblies provide oversight over the resource management

- 3) Budgetary role: County Assemblies provide finance hence fuelling service delivery
- 4) Planning policy documents: County Assemblies consider and adopt the planning and policy documents

In conclusion the chairperson reiterated that County Assemblies will continue to facilitate County Assemblies to facilitate service delivery in the Counties.

Sen. (Rev.) Julius Recha Murgor, M.P. - Chairperson, Senate Standing Committee on Labour and Social Welfare

The Senator highlighted how resourcing of Counties has facilitated service delivery as well as how the Senate measures the service delivery by the Counties.

The Senator pointed out ways in which the Senate tracks the performance of the Counties in service delivery which included;-

1. The quarterly and annual Budget implementation report by the Controller of the Budget outlines the extent of budget implementation across the 47 counties, highlighting the critical issues of concern and follow-up.
2. Through County oversight visits the Counties engage with the respective County Executive, County Assembly, and by extension, the Members of the Assembly and the County Public Service Boards. There are instances where the Senate (Committee on Labour and Social Welfare) has engaged stakeholders in a particular county only to determine the strained relationship between the CPSB and the Executive. According to the Committee, this kind of scenario brings to the fore the possibility of impeded service delivery.
3. The engagement between the Senate and the public especially relating to petitions before the Senate. For instance, during the 12th Parliament, more than half of the petitions before the Committee on Labour and Social Welfare were related to unfair work relations between the county governments and their workers.

Dr. Meshack Ndirangu - Country Director, Amref Health Africa in Kenya

Dr. Ndirangu highlighted the impact of Amref's work in the communities where Amref is concerned with delivery of primary health care. He offered an insight into the lessons learnt for better health outcomes which included 4 levers also known as 4Ps which were.

1. Political goodwill
2. People centred primary health care models
3. Precision and data health systems
4. Primary health care resourcing

Further, he highlighted some of the success stories from the counties. For example Turkana where maternal mortality has greatly reduced, Kwale where primary care networks have been put in place, Meru county where the people centred models have worked and finally the 12 (twelve) Counties of western Kenya where Malaria is endemic, who have significantly been able reduce Malaria infections in the Counties.

Dr. Meshack pointed out some of the challenges which included the lack of standards and sectoral policies, Absence of performance management framework, Inadequate staffing in health care as well as inadequate finances for highly populated counties.

In conclusion, he stated that prioritisation is important given the limited resources more so prioritising health care. Counties he said need to partner with development partners like Amref in delivery of health care.

Ms. Wanjiru Gikonyo - Social Accountability Expert

Ms. Gikonyo highlighted that the 2021 report by the World Bank on the evaluation of public service delivery is an objective analysis of devolution progress of performance in public service delivery. According to the earlier public expenditure report by the Ministry of Planning and National Development (2017), Counties have maintained service delivery at pre-devolution levels, and reasonably expanded service delivery reach to previously unserved areas. Generally, the health ECDE, rural water has fared relatively well under devolution.

Nevertheless, she highlighted that agriculture, and urban services haven't fared as well with reversals in some development indicators e.g. levels of crucial extension farming are generally below pre-devolution levels. However, she mentioned that agriculture, and urban services haven't fared as well with reversals in some development indicators. Eg levels of crucial extension farming are generally below pre-devolution levels.

In addition, certain challenges have delayed the effective execution of performance management and service delivery for socio-economic development. Gaps in the standards setting and enforcement of the National government functions, including undeveloped sectoral policy, staff gaps that aim to higher admin staff as opposed to frontline and technical staff as well as inconsistent capacity building. The M&E and performance systems are relatively weak and do not provide required information for performance management and oversight.

Nevertheless, Ms. Gikonyo emphasised on the need for counties to better their performance management and service delivery, through good practices, including;

- Prioritisation of Human resource management systems (HRMS), evidence and data-based management, reporting and evaluation
- Harnessing cross-county synergies at regional block level, to meet capacity needs in building HRMS policy and implementation capacity,
- Ensuring all funds in the National budget undertaking county functions are transferred to the county government
- Taking concerted and objective intervention in the health & water sectors to resolve long standing differences which are impacting service delivery
- Institutionalisation of successful models like project management Committee
- Strengthening the performance and effectiveness of public participation platforms such as the CBEF and Governor round tables

Recommendations from the Session:

The various speakers proposed the following solutions towards overcoming the challenges that hamper devolution:

1. The 4Ps: i) Identifying key Priorities and proactively following through with them, ii) Having in place responsive Policies that have a clear roadmap to service delivery, iii) the right Personnel to achieve the county's objectives, iv) Performance management to ensure effective delivery.
2. Performance Contracting: This is a tool for holding executives accountable. Adopted by Nyeri County, this approach catapulted it to number one in 2019 from number 47. This was achieved by following through on key aspects of the county that included the reduction of pending bills to less than 1% of budgetary allocations, having in place service delivery commitments, compliance with statutory obligations, and improved monitoring of projects.
3. Embracing uniform norms and standards, including values and principles of the public service
4. For the Public Service boards in counties to take advantage of the HR principles and implement them.
5. For counties to harness cross-county synergies to meet capacity needs in building HRMS policy and implementation capacity.
6. Public participation to strengthen performance and effectiveness.
7. Prioritising performance management: This can be through multi-stakeholder engagement, developing a Bill on performance management, and automating Performance Management Systems that counties can use to measure their performance – the case of Makueni, Nyeri, and Kakamega.
8. For the central government to transfer the remaining functions to the counties as per the Kenya Constitution

9. The use of County Assemblies in offering effective service delivery through the following approaches:
 - a. Ensuring budgets are passed on time to ensure effective service delivery.
 - b. Passage of policy and planning documents (CIDPS, CBROP, ADP, etc.)
 - c. Being a watchdog of the people ensures the resources bestowed at the county are effectively used.

2.2 Official Opening Ceremony

Moderator: Governor Stephen Sang, Governor, Nandi County and Chief Whip, Council of Governors

Amb. Meg Whitman - U.S. Ambassador to Kenya

The Ambassador gave a pitch on why investment in Kenya by foreign firms will be their best move, considering the fact that Kenya is one of the most stable democracies in Africa; a gateway to 500 million regional EAC markets; is a regional ICT and financial hub and has young, educated entrepreneurs and an English-speaking workforce. Kenya is also a leading destination for FDIs and venture capital. The government of Kenya is open for business. She, however, advised on the following areas of improvement that the government should take:

- Taxes: To have a consistent, transparent, and fairly administered national tax policy
- Corruption: This issue must be addressed if Kenya is to reach its intended levels and potential in all areas of development.
- Debt-to-GDP ratio: Kenya's debt-to-GDP ratio is 69%, which is too high (IMF)
- Cargo Clearance: The delivered cost of a container in Kenya remains significantly higher than shipments to other places

The story of Why Africa, Why Kenya and Why counties need to be told to attract global investors to the country.

Mr. Peter Ndegwa - Safaricom PLC Chief Executive Officer

The Chief Executive Officer highlighted that in its contribution to devolution, Safaricom has invested heavily in providing secure connectivity and infrastructure development through cloud, fiber and smartphones. It is the devolution partner for digital transformation. Safaricom has also developed "My County App", which is interoperable with many other county government platforms; 14 counties have so far onboarded. The App aims at broadening digital service delivery, improving citizen involvement, and improve access to government services.

Dr. Githinji Gitahi - Amref Health Africa Group Chief Executive Officer

Dr. Githinji stated that AMREF plans to invest 50 million USD to build Primary Health Care hospitals in the counties to ensure there are quality healthcare services and health providers, including doctors, nurses, and medical students. AMREF encourages the privatisation of health facilities in the counties to empower them to manage their own hospitals for effective healthcare provision.

Mr. Paul Russo, EBS - Kenya Commercial Bank Group Chief Executive Officer

Mr. Russo highlighted that KCB would continue to work with county governments and the various ministries to deliver transformational partnerships. KCB promises an unmatched product and value proposition that will enhance the competitiveness of counties as far as the delivery of devolved services is concerned.

H.E. Amb. Ole Thonke - Chair of the Devolution Donor Working Group

The Chair highlighted that devolution has been a game changer; it has been clearly evident as it has brought resources and services closer to the people and increased investment in areas such as health, water, and education, among others.

Hon. Musalia Mudavadi, EGH - Prime Cabinet Secretary

The Prime Cabinet Secretary highlighted the major challenges that impede growth of counties which included; lack of budget execution, pending Bills, capacity building and own source revenue among others. He challenged the current governors and those in the national government to reflect on whether they act as facilitators or as obstructors in efficiency and effectiveness around devolution. It was agreed that in any role taken in government, one should purposely be a facilitator and not an obstructor.

Rt. Hon. (Dr.) Moses M. Wetangula, EGH, M.P. - Speaker of the National Assembly

The Speaker in his remarks which were presented by the Deputy Speaker of the National Assembly, Hon. Gladys Shollei, MP stated that the National Assembly remains committed to close collaboration with county governments to address the needs of citizens through enhanced legislation to enable effective service delivery and equitable distribution of resources to support service delivery. In this regard, it will deal with and fast-track legislation on pending laws, including healthcare laws, food and food safety, roads, and supporting quality education.

Rt. Hon. Amason J. Kingi, EGH, M.P. - Speaker of the Senate

The government of Kenya, through its various arms, has walked the talk and ensured that devolution gains are preserved and sustained. The various Acts that have been developed to support and underpin devolution are key policy documents that help in implementing the devolution program. Attained goals of devolution, however, must be nurtured and collectively harnessed and coordinated.

Governor Anne Waiguru, EGH - Chairperson, Council of Governors

The Governor commended the National Government for the timely disbursement of the allocations to the county governments during the FY 2022/2023 and the first month of the FY 2023/2024.

She noted that, as a result of devolution, maternal deaths had dropped significantly, there had been improved access to healthcare, an increase in the number of health facilities as well as increased investments in agriculture. County governments have also been at the forefront of promoting climate-smart technologies.

In conclusion, the Governor reiterated the need to entrench in law the financial autonomy of the County Assemblies for proper oversight over the executive.

Official Opening by H.E. Dr. William Samoei Ruto, C.G.H. - President of the Republic of Kenya and Commander-in-Chief of the Defence Forces

President Ruto gave the following commitments that the national government will undertake toward the counties:

1. Strengthening devolution through specific interventions, including the transfer of all outstanding functions constitutionally assigned to counties.
2. Implement a framework that ensures that national agencies carrying out devolved or shared mandates operate under a funding-followed-functions principle with respect to devolved functions.
3. Ensure that shareable revenue is transferred to counties in a timely and predictable manner and in accordance with the law.
4. To support the Bottom-Up Economic Transformation Agenda by promoting stronger performance at the grassroots through collaboration with county governments and enhancing the equitable allocation to county governments from Ksh 370 billion in the 2022/23 financial year to Ksh 385.4 billion in the 2023/24 financial period.

5. To support county governments in improving their capacity to generate their own income and reduce over-reliance on transfers from the national government.
6. Transfer funds owed to beneficiary communities under the Mining Act 2016 and the Petroleum Act 2019, and collaborate with counties to increase the capacity of such communities to benefit from extractive resources.

On corruption, the President committed to treating it at all levels of government as a high-priority law enforcement issue requiring an expeditious and decisive response.

The President went on to launch the Devolution Book as well Joint County Bankable Investment Handbook

Resolutions from the Session:

1. Fast-track regularisation, documentation and registration of land with the objective of expanding the national cadastre

3. Provide a framework for enhancing collaboration between the county and national government
4. Facilitate the affordable housing programme County governments should make a commitment to facilitate last-mile infrastructure provisions such as water, roads, sewer lines, and health centres.
5. The county should put in place frameworks for facilitating the ownership of affordable housing units, such as through county housing cooperatives, including frameworks for managing the upcoming affordable housing schemes.
6. The government should develop energy planning standards and regulations that will enhance the energy efficiency of buildings towards the achievement of 100% green energy by 2030, which will be a catalyst for green housing. Dr. Tim Theuri - Chief Executive Officer, Kenya Health Federation

Mr. John Kuenhle - Chair, Development Partners for Health in Kenya (DPHK)

Dr. Ann Kihara - President Elect, International Federation of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists and Emeritus President African Federation of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists

Mr. Irungu Nyakera - Chairperson, Kenya Medical Supplies Authority (KEMSA)

Following panellist discussions it was observed that most counties allocate over 30% of their total budget to health despite having 14 devolved functions. Further, 28 counties have so far passed legislation on the ring-fencing of health resources through Facility Improvement Funds. The panellists underscored the fact that Kenya needs to increase its budget allocation to health to 15% as per the Abuja declaration currently, it is about 11%. This notwithstanding, counties continue to embrace innovations to improve efficiency and effective service delivery for example telemedicine and the use of drone technology to supply commodities.

Some of the key breakthroughs by the Ministry of Health includes developing an essential benefit package that has no exclusions. The package will cover a wide range of services, including wellness promotion. Costing is currently ongoing to ensure that the package is fit for the purpose of the social health insurance scheme. The Ministry has already trained Community Health Promoters (CHPs) and is currently in the process of ordering kits and gadgets for them.

Some of the key challenges highlighted include:

1. Slow Progress in Health Worker Recruitment and Retention: A shortage of health workers can lead to overburdened healthcare facilities, longer patient wait times, and reduced quality of care.
2. Unnecessary Referrals: The challenge of unnecessary referrals occurs when patients seek care at higher-level healthcare facilities when their medical condition could have been managed effectively at a lower-level facility.

3. The inconsistency in engagement terms and contracts for health professionals is a challenge that has led to unequal treatment, demotivation, and legal issues.
4. The issue of presentism, where health workers are physically present but lack motivation and engagement,
5. Limited Financial Resources for Health Sector Development
6. Discrepancies in Funding Allocation: The method of allocating funds to counties based on last audited accounts compared to the national budget is based on revenue collected at that time has led to disparities in the funds available for counties.

Some of the recommendations from the deliberations include:

1. On health system strengthening, there is need to build robust healthcare systems, particularly at the primary care level. This is essential for effective delivery of services, preventing illness and promoting overall well-being.
2. The need to shift towards sustainable healthcare solutions is necessary. This entails focusing on high-impact county-level capacity building, aligning transition strategies with government priorities such as Universal Health Coverage (UHC) and Primary Healthcare (PHC), and integrating services to ensure holistic and enduring quality care.
3. The implementation of the Facility Improvement Funds (FIF) for ring-fencing funds can play a crucial role in addressing health financing challenges.
4. The need for a shift towards prevention and health promotion is highly recommended. Engaging community health promoters to educate the public about preventive measures can significantly reduce the burden of diseases.
5. To further enhance efficiency, KEMSA should expedite adoption of a regional distribution model that involves strategically locating regional distribution centres.

2.7 Sub-Theme II: Digital Economy and Integration of Technology In The Devolved Sectors For Economic Development

Moderator: Ms. Fiona Asonga, Chief Executive Officer, Technology Service Providers Association of Kenya (TESPOK)

Keynote speaker: H.E. Henriette Geiger, Ambassador of the European Union Delegation to Kenya

The ambassador lauded the opening of the Data Protection Commissioner's offices at the County Level for example in Mombasa. Additionally, she reiterated the need for counties to prioritise Cyber Security which is posing a great risk to the citizenry. She reiterated that there was need for counties to build and invest in their cyber security resilience by prioritising it in their budget allocations. Further that devolving digitization would enhance service delivery as well as boost own resource generation. The ambassador observed that there was need to harmonise counties' own source revenue systems as well as land administration systems. For example, Ardhi Sasa had been rolled out to all counties with the help of the European Union.

Furthermore, the ambassador observed that while all 47 counties are connected to the internet there is a digital divide between rural and urban population and the way to bridge this is public private partnerships in the sector through last mile connectivity. In conclusion, the ambassador pledged the support of the European Union.

Governor Wisley Rotich - Chairperson, CoG ICT and Knowledge Management Committee

governor emphasised that a collaborative approach with all stakeholders would be necessary for the digitization process on two fronts: digitization of government and of business.

He further stated that digitization is essential in revenue collection and called for collection revenue platforms to be standardised across the counties and reiterated that counties are prepared to work with all stakeholders to realise this.

Digitization he stated was also necessary in health systems e.g., drug delivery, land records as well as agricultural extension services and in end-to-end procurement systems through IFMIS.

The Governor observed that gaps exist hence a need to create a conducive environment for digitization through last mile connectivity to enable ICT infrastructure to be accessible to the remote areas of the counties. He gave an example of My County App which has been used to improve feedback mechanisms between the government and the citizenry in his county.

Mr. Eliud Owalo - Cabinet Secretary, Ministry of Information, Communications and the Digital Economy

The cabinet secretary defined a digital economy as one that involves infrastructure, skills and opportunities. He stated that there were plans to roll out an additional 100,000kms of fibre optic cable as well as 25,000 free WIFI hotspots. Additionally, in support of the digital skilling program the government launched the Gitume Program targeted at the youth. Additionally, to enable the youth source for digital jobs plans were under way to have digital hubs in all wards where each hub can create 1,500 jobs in each and every constituency.

Additionally, stated that digitization of all government records and services was ongoing where the government intends to digitise 7500 services further that digital identification of persons in the digital platforms was being pursued by the government. Tied to this was access to cheap smart enabled phones where the government the Cabinet Secretary stated, was working in collaboration with the private sector he further reiterated the need for a collaborative approach between the national and county for digitization to be attainable.

The cabinet secretary stated that data security and privacy is integral hence the government's support to the data protection office, he further reiterated the need for a legal and policy framework in the digitization agenda and a collaborative approach working with the private sector in public private partnerships.

Ms. Cynthia Kropac - Chief Enterprise Business Officer, Safaricom PLC

Ms. Kropac noted that Safaricom and Mpesa specifically is an enabler for growth and development in the Country and that 4G penetration was at 12% which was still very low, another challenge was smart phones accessibility.

She observed that for digitization to be tainable there was need for connectivity and protection of citizens' data. Safaricom has helped the energy and water sector through digitization of the metering system which has helped to curb pilferage and wastage.

Mr. Hamisi Williams - Assistant Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) Representative- Kenya

Mr. Williams stated that FAO works towards food systems transformations through the use of technology where land is an important factor for production. He observed that land tenure is a challenge in the Country where huge tracts of land are held up in litigation and that one way of sorting this is through the Alternative Justice System (AJS) which would go a long way in maximising the potential of land.

He stated that FAO has worked with the government to digitise land systems where 14 registries in 14 counties have so far been digitised. Land customer services that is; searches and payments have been digitised.

FAO supports innovation through Geographical Information Systems (GIS) laboratories in 9 countries and 25 more counties have been earmarked. He gave an example of best practice where in Vihiga County the use of GIS labs has been used for revenue collection, and targeted development projects informed by data.

He observed that agriculture still remains hugely undigitized hence the challenge of obtaining farmers information. He stated that digitization would be helpful in E-extension services where operation of the platform still remains a challenge, market intelligence that is how and when to buy and where the market is as well as credit cording for provision of credit to the farmers by the banks based on their production patterns.

Mr. David Omwoyo - Chief Executive Officer, Media Council of Kenya (MCK)

Mr. David Omwoyo stated that the media works to provide information through the use of the traditional media and social media. Further, there needs to be safeguards for fact checking. He gave an example of the Maarifa Centre as a useful and credible resource for information

Mr. Ezra Chiloba - Director General, Communication Authority (CA)

Mr. Chiloba stated that the Kenya Information and Communications (Amendment) Act, 2009, provides for the establishment of a Universal Service Fund (USF), administered and managed by the Communications Authority of Kenya (CA). The purpose of the fund is to support widespread access to ICT services, promote capacity building and innovation in ICT services in the country.

He observed ICT Infrastructure is at risk with continuous cuts and vandalism where for example 30 towers were brought down by insurgents hence the need for a framework to protect infrastructure.

Mr. Chiloba further stated that supporting infrastructure like roads and power to support USF projects are of huge importance to support the last mile connectivity. Mr. Chiloba sought the support of the counties' leadership where some communities are not receptive to the technologies and reiterated the need for the county leadership to collaborate with the Communication Authority to deliver Universal Service Fund projects.

Resolutions from the session:

1. The National government shall create a policy framework for anchoring digitization.
2. The Senate to ensure all the legal frameworks and policies are in place to ensure better and affordable ICT connectivity.
3. In the efforts to put in place the necessary infrastructure for ICT technology, both levels of government shall ensure proper coordination between the ICT departments and other supportive departments such as security, energy, water and transport among others.

4. The need for a value-based approach to digitalization and to ensure the process is inclusive and sustainable
5. Need for a framework that supports equal and equitable access to ICT services
6. Market intelligence through the use of digital devices will assist farmers in counties to know when to sell or when to buy agricultural products
7. The need for county and national governments to coordinate to deliver value in terms of service delivery through use of technology.
8. The need for a legislative and policy framework that protects critical infrastructure like telecommunication masts and fibre optic cables to ensure last mile connectivity.
9. The need for a multi stakeholder approach to develop supporting infrastructure like roads and power connectivity to facilitate last mile connectivity.

2.8 Sub Theme III: Resourcing Devolution for Service Delivery

Moderator: Mr. Boniface Mung'ania, Director, Public Sector Digital Transformation, Safaricom PLC

Keynote Address: Mr. Paul Russo, Chief Executive Officer, Kenya Commercial Bank

Mr. Russo underscored the need to maximise on the potential of regional blocs for aggregation and resource mobilisation. Counties he observed need to build on strategic partnerships as well as predictable and sustainable investments.

Governor FCPA Fernandes Barasa, OGW - Chairperson, CoG Finance, Planning and Economic Affairs Committee

The Governor observed that allocation between National and Counties has major disparities due to the fact that functions were inadequately costed leading to inadequate funding for essential services like health, education and Infrastructure.

The Governor called for the Commission on Revenue Allocation (CRA) to study the impact of disparities to the Counties/ impact assessment to inform the future allocations. The Governor reiterated that devolved functions ought to be devolved with the attendant resources. He further stated that Counties have had to overdependence on conditional grants whose conditionalities may not be attainable.

The Governor recommended that the office of the Controller of Budget should digitally transform to facilitate the release of funds in a timely manner to the County Revenue Fund account.

In conclusion the Governor termed the miscellaneous amendment to the Public Finance Management Act, 2012 to create a committee to approve expenditure by counties as retrogressive.

Governor Cecily Mbarire, MGH - Chairperson, CoG Resource Mobilisation and Partnerships Committee

The Governor underscored the need to put more weight on the population, the rationale being that services are given to people. She noted that deficiencies in revenue exist hence the need to grow the base through own source revenue and alternative sources of revenue further she reiterated the need to identify and diversify revenue streams.

The Governor observed that there is a need for legislation on use of revenue at source, especially for hospitals as well as the need for counties to leverage on resource mobilisation through partnerships with development partners for example world bank. Additionally, counties need to develop cashless systems through digitization.

The Governor also observed that there is need to optimise on Public Private Partnerships independent of the National Government as a resource generation mechanism. Other alternative sources of revenue for counties includes County Bonds like in the example of Laikipia County as well as green bonds which are non-traditional revenue generation mechanisms for counties. Others include; agribusiness and value addition, Industrial parks, enhance local tourism as revenue generation streams, partnership with Kenya Tourism Board and Ministry of Tourism on generation of tourism products and marketing.

The Governor underscored the need to harmonise county taxes to avoid over taxation as well as county investment funds to support more medium sized enterprises. She reiterated that automation in the release of funds to the County Revenue Funds account is important to facilitate counties in service delivery as well as integrated systems for revenue collection to maximise collection of revenue for counties.

Prof. Njuguna Ndung'u, CBS - Cabinet Secretary, National Treasury and Planning

The Cabinet Secretary underscored that the basis of division of revenue is equitable sharing of resources for service delivery. He further highlighted the components of revenue sharing which are; County equitable share, 15% of raised nationally, Conditional allocations; Loans and grants and Equalisation fund. Further he discussed the basis for the equitable share of revenue as provided for in Article 203 of the Constitution which includes; public debt, interest on debt, economic disparities, national obligations and own source revenue. He highlighted the need to grow the base and concentrate on strategies on optimising base growth.

On the role of treasury to support devolved functions, the Cabinet Secretary submitted that part of the plan is to have predictable revenue payment where for instance all revenue owed to counties before the end of the FY 2022/2023 was paid in a timely manner.

Further, the Cabinet Secretary highlighted that to alleviate deficits in county revenue own source revenue treasury has come up with policy proposals through laws for example; County Government Own Source Revenue Bill, 2023, National Rating Bill, 2023 which will unlock revenue from property rates, automation of revenue collection systems in collaboration with all stakeholders.

The Cabinet Secretary listed the source of revenue constraints experienced in the counties which included;

1. pending bills are a huge challenge
2. pension payments, where only 3 counties out of 47 have no arrears on pension
3. huge wage bill
4. financial reporting

In conclusion, the Cabinet Secretary underscored the need for both levels of government to provide for development in their budgets even in times of crisis.

Hon. Ndindi Nyoro M.P. - Chairperson, National Assembly Budget & Appropriations Committee

Hon. Nyoro highlighted that in the 2023/2024 financial year budget 3.744 trillion shillings was allocated. 2.3 trillion was allocated to the national government, 1.5 trillion being recurrent expenses while the balance was for development. 385 billion was allocated as the equitable share while the consolidated fund services received 986B. The first charge from the consolidated equitable share is obligatory in nature and goes into repayment of debts.

The macro environment in the Country in 2022 meant more funds had to be allocated to intervene for famine mitigation, global inflation and capital flights from the emerging markets such as Kenya to for example the USA. As of August 2023, inflation has reduced for example food inflation has reduced to 8.6% down from 15%. He observed that from the financial year 2012/13 to the last financial year 3.3trillion had so far been received by Counties while generation of own source revenue grew by 8-12%.

Hon. Nyoro underscored the need to focus on GDP growth on primary production e.g., from Agriculture, Mining, Manufacturing and Service industry. He further reiterated the need for a policy leveraging on primary production.

In conclusion he observed a contradiction exists on how monies are allocated to the counties where the allocation currently is based on last audited and approved accounts. Hon. Nyoro was of the opinion that the allocation should be based on actual current projections further reiterating the need to raise GDP from the current 12% to 25%.

CPA Mary A.C. Wanyonyi - Chairperson, Commission on Revenue Allocation (CRA)

The Chairperson highlighted the factors for consideration of horizontal revenue sharing which included; Population 18%, Poverty 14%, Health 17%, Urban services 5%, Agriculture 10%, Land 8%, Basic share 20% and Roads 8%. She noted that land and basic share parameters are not population based.

The Chairperson noted that counties have been trying to grow their own source revenues for instance in the 2018/19 the counties revenue 40.3 billion against a target of 53 billion hence the performance was at 74.7 %. She informed the plenary that in a potential study conducted by the CRA showed that counties can generate 216B and further noted that equitable share cannot be reduced based on increased own source revenue by counties.

She further highlighted the gaps that exist that hinder counties from leveraging on their own source revenue collection which included: use of old laws to collect revenue putting counties at the risk of litigation, limited forecasting where counties use their own source revenue as a balancing figure which they do not collect leading to huge pending bills.

The Chairperson stated that CRA in an effort to capacity build the counties has developed tools and guidelines on foresting which have been availed to counties. The chairperson challenged the counties to leverage on business and property rates which she termed as low-lying fruits that can be used to optimise own source revenue. She further reiterated the need to capacity build the counties to identify the property they own.

Fragmented revenue management systems was another challenge the Chairperson noted as limiting the counties' potential. CRA recommended an integrated revenue management system for counties further that this could best be arrived at through a taskforce on its implementation. In conclusion the chairperson underscored the need for automation in the counties.

Mr. Keith Hansen - Country Director, World Bank

Mr. Hansen highlighted the World Bank portfolio in the country stands at 1 trillion. He underscored the need to; Raise productivity and job creation, Reduce inequality and Boost reliance on climate change shocks. He observed that Kenya has potential to do more. The world bank he noted has intensified its investments in Agriculture where 1.6 million farmers productivity has increased.

He encouraged counties to harness the power of urbanisation and public private partnerships. The world bank is also concentrating in the 10 north and north-eastern counties where various investments have been made.

In conclusion he highlighted that the world bank has invested in primary health care and governance structures in the country.

Recommendations: Resourcing Devolution for Service Delivery

1. There needs to be automation of the requisition, so that the time required to push the release of money is expedited within 2 weeks to the county revenue fund accounts, noting the process of following up with the disbursement of funds was an expensive affair.
2. Utilise climate finance and tap on existing opportunities through County Government Fund - Financing Locally-Led Climate Action (FLLoCA).
3. Optimise idle resources, such as leasing county public assets such as county agricultural machinery.
4. Develop an integrated revenue system between the two levels of government to enhance transparency in the revenue collection.
5. Expedite the unbundling of funds to improve service delivery in the activities they have committed to undertake.

6. Improve on value addition and the current program on the county aggregation and industrial parks that will further enhance value addition.
7. Develop a policy and legislative framework on own source revenue
8. Capacity build the counties to facilitate their planning and budgeting to avoid the pitfall of pending bills
9. Consider setting up a taskforce made up of key stakeholders to develop an integrated revenue management system for county governments
10. The Senate to facilitate the consideration of the County Government Own Source Revenue Bill, 2023 and National Rating Bill, 2023 which will unlock revenue from property rates and automation of revenue collection systems in collaboration with all stakeholders.

The Principal Secretary emphasised on the significant strides that devolution conferences have made in various sectors, in creating opportunities to discuss and deliberate on devolution progress. She highlighted that the public has observed a greater impact of devolution through the transfer of assets and functions to the county governments. Currently, more services have been decentralised and are closer to the people, than ten years ago. It is quite commendable to note the remarkable performance that the county government and secretariat had played. She reiterated on the need to strengthen participation by national government and county government which improves policy and performance

Grace Nabiswa: Resolutions of the Children's Devolution Conference 2023

Gathered in the Children's Devolution Conference 2023 from the 3rd to 7th July 2023 at the M-Pesa Foundation Academy in Kiambu County, Ms. Nabiswa pointed out the key highlights of the conference, on behalf of the children from the 47 Counties. She also appreciated the effort of the National Government and County Governments in improving their lives and ensuring they enjoy their Constitutional rights and other international laws and statutes.

Recalling all previous Children's Devolution Conferences and pronouncements in relation to children's issues, she mentioned the need for the Government and non-governmental stakeholders to make progress. This will ensure inclusive and equitable quality education, including vocational education, and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all.

However, of key concerns were the alarming cases of harmful cultural practices and teenage pregnancies, leading to the dropping out of young girls from school. All these forms of violence against children were unanimously denounced, stressing on the need for a robust multi-stakeholder engagement on the implementation of child protection strategies for sustainable development agenda in the Country. So to speak, they call upon the National Government and County Governments to take the following concrete steps:

1. On Devolution and Children's Rights:

- Review all laws and policies to ensure universal access to children's rights with emphasis on teenage girl pregnancies
- Establish a Children's Council of Governors comprising of children governors for each of the 47 Counties.
- Provide professional counsellors in every school to ensure the mental well-being of both the learners and the teachers;
- Review the Public Finance Management Act (2012) Section 137 (1) to provide for children's representation in the County Budget and Economic Forum (CBEF);
- Replicate the school feeding programs in Mombasa and Nairobi, to the rest of the Counties, for access to school by all learners;
- Enhance advocacy on safety and security of children living in conflict prone settings to enjoy their rights of safety, access to quality education and healthcare services;
- Guarantee access to justice for all children and strengthening of accountability mechanisms to bring perpetrators of violence against children to justice.

2. On Child Participation in Governance:

- Sensitize and popularise the Kenya Children's Assembly as a platform for airing and sharing children's views;
- Organise sensitization forums for Children on the Children's Act 2022, for clear understanding of rights and obligations;
- Charitable engagement in children's institutions before the next Children's Devolution Conference and share a plan on where children with no families will be placed;

3. On Inclusivity for ALL Children:

- Through the relevant Ministry, develop a legal framework to obligate Governments to provide accessible infrastructure and services for children with disabilities.
- Provide essential personalised services and up-to-date equipment and materials for learners with disabilities to realise their right to education, including talking calculators, braille machines, walking sticks, wheelchairs among others.

4. On Talent development:

- National Government to devolve the Talanta Hela Program to all counties to support talent development, and facilitate children's talent development at the local level;
- Inclusion of all children in talent development programs by Private Sector Institutions such as the Women in Technology program and the Chapa

Dimba;

5. On Environment and Climate Change

- In the spirit of environmental protection, everyone is called to take personal responsibility in the mitigation of climate change effects. In this course, the National and County Governments to involve children and invest in renewable energies, green and blue economies as well as other modern energy technology such as electric vehicles and bicycles;

Hon. Kathuri Murungi, MGH, MP – Deputy Speaker of the Senate

In his remarks, the Deputy Speaker of the Senate, highlighted that the state of affairs in our country, prior to the promulgation of the 2010 Constitution, was characterised by glaring economic imbalance, driven by skewed distribution of resources and opportunities. This resulted in the exclusion and marginalisation of some parts of the country, and undermined our desire to remain one great, united nation.

The Kenyan Constitution brought to light new reforms to renegotiate the social contract by the Kenyan people, through the devolution concept. The ultimate goal of devolution was and has been to spur and accelerate Kenya's socio-economic transformation from the grassroots, and in due course make it competitive at the global phase.

He emphasised that, in the current political dispensation, devolution clearly fits together with the Kenya Kwanza manifesto of the Bottom-Up Economic Transformation Agenda (BETA) 2022-2027, whose core vision is to uplift the lives of the ordinary Kenyans. In addition, he affirmed that five pillars stipulated in the Economic Transformation Agenda: agriculture, micro, small, and medium enterprises, housing and settlement, healthcare, digital highway, and the creative economy, are noble intentions geared towards yielding great results, through the significant role played by the County Government.

Despite the daunting challenges faced in the 10-year Devolution journey, he observed that countless success stories including massive improvements in road networks, improved infrastructure in healthcare system, modern stadiums, markets, growth of businesses and increased employment opportunities for Kenyans, have emerged.

In order to deal with the challenges of inadequate funds, he challenged both the National Government and County Government to partner and establish reliable sources of revenue for the implementation of Devolution. He underscored the significance of own-source-revenue, as a guarantee to ultimate financial liberty and autonomy that devolved units so much crave for and would definitely make devolution sustainable. As such, he reiterated the need to boldly interrogate the approaches deployed in the last one decade in financing our devolved sectors and be ready to embrace new ones that guarantee sustainability and adequacy.

He assured all the stakeholders that the Senate on its part is fully committed to support devolution transformation through necessary legislative interventions and the requisite legal framework.

Sen. Justice (Rtd.) Stewart Madzayo, CBS, MP - Senate Minority Leader

The Minority Leader reiterated that the Country cannot move backwards on the aspect of Devolution and observed that whereas strides have been made by the National Government in releasing funds to the Counties, delay disbursement of funds was still a major challenge in the context of County Revenue Sharing mechanism. County Governments he noted heavily rely on these funds to provide essential services and drive development projects within their jurisdictions. Continued delay payments and unreliable disbursements have hampered operations in most County Governments, prompting threats of operational shutdowns by several assemblies forcing some Counties to take overdrafts.

Further, the Minority Leader highlighted that most Counties end up using the money that should have been allocated for development and recurrent expenditure on costly overdraft facilities to ensure salaries are paid and essential services are provided, which attracts high interest and unnecessarily burdens the taxpayer. He urged the National Government to timely disburse funds to Counties to enable Governors to effectively carry out their daily operations and implement crucial projects.

While noting that the last ten years of devolution have had their fair share of successes and challenges, he however raised concern on the low rate of absorption of these funds for development purposes. He called upon leaders to always do a better job for the people. He encouraged counties to spend the entire allocation on development to positively contribute towards the county's growth and service delivery.

Further, he noted that although Devolution had brought some success in bringing the Government closer to Kenyan citizens and advancing development, evidence showed that Corruption was a major challenge affecting most County Governments and urged counties to expose corruption and to stab it out completely. In conclusion, he reiterated that the spirit of Devolution in Kenya is not about two levels competing but complementing each other for efficient and effective service delivery to the citizens.

Hon. Owen Baya, MP - National Assembly Deputy Majority Leader

On behalf of the National Assembly Majority Leader, Hon. Mbaya underscored the commitment to ensure adequate funding for the counties. He highlighted the need for counties to prioritise development and deal with corruption. Hon. Baya reiterated the need to complete projects left incomplete by subsequent county governments in the countries which resulted in the loss of taxpayer resources and lack of adequate service delivery.

Senator Veronica Maina on behalf of Rt. Hon. Amason J. Kingi, EGH, M.P - Speaker of the Senate

The senator highlighted that while devolution has experienced immense successes, the success of the next phase of devolution will be determined by the ability of the counties to raise their own source revenue and deal with corruption.

She reiterated the Senate's commitment to put in place the right policy and legislative framework to facilitate counties for example she stated the devolution committee was considering anchoring of the County Assemblies Forum (CAF) into law and facilitating the autonomy of the County Assemblies through amendments to the County Government Act, 2012 and Public Finance Management Act, 2012.

Governor Anne Waiguru, EGH - Chairperson Council of Governors

The Chairperson, Council of Governors appreciated that the drafters of the overall program and the breakaway session programs aligned them to the President's Bottom-up Economic Transformation Agenda (BETA). Moving forward, in the third cycle of devolution, she brought to the attention of the participants that there will be a need to focus on delivering accessible, available and quality services to all Kenyans. This will ensure that each Kenyan from all corners of the country experiences socio-economic transformation.

She reiterated on the previous plenum session that focussed on how County Governments can apply performance management as a tool for strengthening effective service delivery, as well as the breakaway sessions that generated meaningful resolutions on strengthening primary health care; provision of housing; positioning Counties as trade and investment destinations; and building the blue economy sector for the benefit of local communities.

Focussing on the Devolution book launch by H.E. the President, the Governor, emphasised on the importance to understand history and learn from it so that a better future is built. The Devolution Book is a publication that seeks to enlighten readers on the history of decentralisation in Kenya and the country's transition from a centralised to a devolved system.

On the discussion of leveraging on digitalization to spur economic development; and financing of County Governments, she expressed her discontentment on the issue of resourcing County functions that has made headlines for over a decade. However, routing of investments towards building strong and sustainable service delivery systems, will allow County Governments to push for adequate financing, through innovation.

In her concluding remarks, she recognised the commitment and outstanding service that two former Governors had showcased through the devolution journey. She emphasised on the need for both levels of government to consult, collaborate, coordinate and cooperate in the performance of respective functions, as assigned by the Constitution.

Keynote address by Rt. Hon. Prime Minister Raila Amollo Odinga, EGH

The Rt. Hon. Prime Minister Raila Amollo Odinga commended the Council of Governors for being able to find their way around the divisive and sometimes toxic politics by creating a leadership that looks past party and political differences but moves the Council forward as a team. He also applauded them for their ability to mend fences and build bridges. This he encouraged them to continue on the path of consensus building, mutual respect and decorum.

He added that ten years of devolution provided a large landscape of transformation and an amazing opportunity of rural economic revival. Courtesy of devolution, most rural towns have beaming markets and businesses, supporting the economy, with a new middle-class level whose members have not stepped into any major city in Kenya, is rising in the villages across Kenya.

Devolution is a success story and a testimony to what the nation can achieve, pursuant to big dreams, despite the obstacles encountered. Currently, in an attempt to deliver more for devolution, try to test and stretch the limits of devolution, one is likely to face scepticism and fears of being wrong and likely to destroy one's political career. He however, urged politicians to dream and sojourn on despite the challenges, as devolution can never be a loser without the nation losing.

He highlighted that in some counties, devolution in 10 years has made remarkable achievements, what the national government was not able to achieve in 10 years. However, persistent challenges in devolution are still being witnessed across the 47 counties. These include:

- Funding issues remain to be a delicate matter in counties owing to its flow and unpredictability. There is need for the controller of budget and CBK to relook at the law on County allocation of Revenue Act (CARA) and ensure that it contains a disbursement schedule. This should prevent the administrative action of the Minister of Finance to write a letter to CBK to release funds as CBK is expected to implement CARA as required.
- Bureaucracy at the office of controller of budget continues to hold back devolution
- Conflicting responsibility between the county chief Executive and Members of County Assemblies. Yet MCAs have real concerns like remuneration and facilitation that ought to be addressed in the interest of harmonious working relationships with the governors
- High uncontrollable wage bill across the 47 counties that continues to eat into what should go into the development
- Duplication of functions, with more money being spent in Afya, Kilimo and Maji House in Nairobi for the roles that are devolved

Hon. Gathoni Wamuchomba, HSC, M.P. - Chairperson, Constitutional Implementation Oversight Committee

Hon. Wamuchomba highlighted that duplication of functions between the National and County Governments hinders equitable and sustainable development additionally transfer of functions is still a challenge making oversight a challenge for Parliament. For example education is a devolved function however a challenge exists on how to separate the Early Childhood Development (ECDs) from the other functions which are National Government functions this is also replicated in the housing sector which is a national function however there is an aspect of county function.

Other factors that hinder sustainable development include corruption, lack of gender mainstreaming in the counties, country boundaries among others. She underscored the need to have the offices of the Commission of Administrative Justice(ombudsman) offices at the County level.

Sen. Moses Kajwang', M.P. - Chairperson, Senate County Public Accounts Committee

The Senator highlighted the need to move beyond the financial statements reporting to focus on service delivery. The perception has been that Parliament is not punishing enough to counties facing various audit queries.

The Senator underscored the need to capacity build county assemblies to be able to carry out oversight at the county level. He gave an example where the Senate committee on county public accounts considers 10 reports per county government which is overwhelming. He suggested a hierarchical approach for example level hospital audit reports could be considered at the county level.

He observed that resources going to counties are inadequate hence the need to find innovative ways of raising money through for example infrastructure bonds as well continuous conversations between the COG and the Senate. He underscored the need for the Senate especially to adopt a physician approach where solutions are pursued rather than mortician approach where solutions are pursued after the fact.

Hon. Florence Kajuju - Chairperson, Commission on Administrative Justice (CAJ)

Hon Kajuju underscored the need to decentralise the office's services. The office acts like the citizen's advocate and works to ensure service delivery to the citizenry. She stated that the office has managed to decentralise their services to some extent although it is still a challenge this has enhanced the delivery of services. She gave an example where the office helped in the implementation of a judgement by the Ojiek community as well as the Access to Information regulations were considered and passed with the assistance of the CAJ's office.

CAJ is working with other Commissions for example the National Gender and Equality Commission to ensure enhanced service delivery. The Commissioner highlighted the success stories in the recovery of assets for example in 2018-2023 EACC recovered assets worth 23.84 B, forfeiture worth 40.78B Kshs while 700 investigations concluded. Further that the commission has prioritised high impact cases in for example the energy sector, water sector as well those of high value for example procurement, infrastructure cases involving high profile individuals. The commission was also working on programmes towards prevention and corruption risks assessments.

The Commission works by making recommendations to seal loopholes but lacks mechanism for enforcement or monitoring the implementation plan.

The Commission has facilitated the creation and establishment of corruption prevention committees and guidelines have been developed for capacity development in 6 pilot counties of Kisumu, Kakamega, Elgeyo among others and will soon be rolled out to other counties. The Commission is geared towards counties doing their own corruption risk assessments.

Promoting good governance, she observed will require public participation for equitable and sustainable development.

Ms. Masinde observed there had been challenges in the; Public Financial Management of resources where there had been disparities in the contribution to the GDP by various counties, Budget performance where 23% of county budgets were not implemented and 14% of items in the county budgets are not funded additionally own source revenue is inconsistent. She reiterated that moving forward partnerships with other stakeholders was important.

Ms. Sheila Karani-Monda - Deputy Office Director- Governance, USAID Kenya and East Africa

Ms. Karani highlighted that USAID facilitated a County Governance Research Study between 2016 to 2020 where issues of service delivery, transparency and integrity were discussed. She observed that there had been lack of effective public participation and limited access to information.

She underscored the need to build the oversight capacity of the County Assemblies especially in the public audit process. Further, USAID was planning on a pilot study on the value of money. However, access to information and public participation still remains a challenge.

Resolutions:

Further the Senator reiterated the need to introduce an impact assessment tool for devolution and build capacity of the various implementers among them Counties, Senate and the Gender departments at the County level.

Additionally, the Senator reiterated the need to strengthen Inter Governmental Relations, also development partners need to capacity build the Senate in its oversight function to have the correct sex education through a curriculum on sex education. An adolescent health policy is also integral for the country. It is also important to deal with sexual violence within homes and the use of the internet by sexual predators.

Mr. Harun. M. Hassan - Executive Director, National Council for Persons with Disabilities (NCPWD)

Mr. Hassan noted that the children's conference where a child with a disability was picked in every county and a Governor with a hearing disability was elected was encouraging and a step in the right direction at having children's voices heard and being part of the conversation. He noted there was lack of a reporting mechanism among the level of government as well as a lack of reliable data on disability hence the need for decentralisation of the registration of the PWDs. Disability mainstreaming also remains a challenge. The Commission did a report on disability inclusion in the National Government which did not include the County Governments.
