(No. 17 of 2012)

COUNTY GOVERNMENT OF UASIN GISHU

COUNTY EXECUTIVE POLICY PAPER

COUNTY MONITORING AND EVALUATION POLICY, 2020

CHAPTER ONE—INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

This is the Uasin Gishu County Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) Policy. The Policy seeks to institutionalize M&E in the County Public sector to support the generation of evidence to meet the increasing demand for results by all stakeholders and for evidence-based decision making. It is also an effort to enculture M&E for efficient utilization of public resources and to promote accountability and transparency; and enhance service delivery.

The County Government of Uasin Gishu (CGUG) is committed to tracking results at all levels. Towards this, the government has embarked on the establishment of a County Integrated M&E System (CIMES).

The Monitoring and Evaluation Policy seeks to provide an appropriate policy framework for establishment and implementation of a robust Monitoring and Evaluation System in the County Public Sector. The policy is meant to address gaps in existing legislations and policies in regard to monitoring and evaluation.

The policy is presented in five chapters as follows: Chapter One is on Introduction; Chapter Two presents Policy Objectives; Chapter Three details Implementation of the Policy; Chapter Four is on M&E Reporting, Communication and Knowledge Management; and Chapter Five presents CIMES Institutional Framework.

1.2 Situational Analysis

The Constitution of Kenya, 2010, ushered in a devolved system of governance, with two but interrelated levels of government; the national government and 47 county governments. The constitution assigns specific powers and functions to national government and county governments. The national government is responsible for the policy making functions on matters cutting across the nation. The county governments are responsible for policy-making and implementation of the fourteen county functions assigned by the fourth schedule of the constitution, and for implementation of specific national government policies, ensuring and coordinating the participation of communities and locations in governance at the local level. However, there are some functions that are under the jurisdiction of both the national and county governments that require coordination, collaboration, consultation and co-operation.

1.2.1 National Context

At the National level, the National Integrated Monitoring and Evaluation System (NIMES) provides a framework for the conduct and practice of M&E within the public sector. NIMES overall objective is to provide a reliable mechanism to monitor and evaluate implementation of government policies, programmes and projects. NIMES aims at strengthening governance by: improving transparency, strengthening accountability relationships, and building a performance culture within the two levels of government to support better policy making, budget decision making and management. It is designed to ensure regular reporting on implementation progress of the country's priority policies, programmes and projects outlined in key policy documents such as MTPs, CIDPs, devolved funds programmes, the National Accountability Management Framework, and Performance Contracts and the Performance Appraisal System. NIMES is replicated by CIMES at the County level.

Further, the National government has developed a Kenya National M&E Policy which articulates the Government's commitment to manage for development results at all levels. The policy provides a clear framework for strengthening the coverage, quality and utility of the assessment of public policies, programmes and projects. It proposes that adequate financial resources for monitoring and evaluation are allocated at all levels. The policy sets the basis for a transparent process by which the citizenry and other development stakeholders can undertake a shared appraisal of results; and outlines the principles for a strong M&E system as an important instrument for driving the achievements of programmes underpinning the Kenya Vision 2030. This policy applies to all public policies, strategies, programmes and projects managed by ministries, County governments, departments, parastatals and executing agencies of public programmes.

The National M&E Policy provides clarity and direction to the NIMES. The policy captures institutional arrangements and responsibilities put in place to implement and coordinate M&E at both national and County levels, particularly the mechanisms to co-ordinate and link national and County level M&E systems. The M&E system and the requirement to report on progress encompass all levels of government, including national government, counties, the judiciary, constitutional commissions and independent offices.

1.2.2 County Context

The Constitution requires the county governments to plan and budget to deliver on policies, programmes and projects. The planning, budgeting, implementation and M&E draw guidance within the framework of County Integrated Development Plan (CIDP), County Sectoral Plans, County Performance Management Plans, County Spatial Plan, Annual Development Plan (ADP), and Cities and Urban Areas Plans.

Upon transition to the system of devolved governance, The County Government of Uasin Gishu inherited functions previously performed by the defunct local authorities and the national government departments at the defunct districts. Among these were the monitoring and evaluation systems, which were mainly in form of administrative data collection systems, and within projects undertaken with specific funding from Government or development partners. However, coordination of the various monitoring and evaluation systems within the development discourse of the County remains a daunting task, thus calling on the County government to develop and institutionalize a consolidated M&E system that will be able to track and ascertain implementation status of policies, programmes and projects and their impacts. At the moment, while there continues to be a substantial amount of administrative data collection and other data collection endeavors, minimal attention is given to data analysis, and quantitative and qualitative findings are seldom used to inform planning and policy making.

A study conducted by the Government of Kenya through Monitoring and Evaluation Directorate (MED) in 2012 on the status of M&E in the Counties established various challenges which include: inadequate policy and legal framework, non-existing/operational M&E structures, inadequate funding for M&E, non-participation of stakeholders and inadequate technical capacity. Other challenges included: emphasis on activities and outputs rather than outcomes and impacts, inadequate analyses of results, lack of infrastructure and equipment to carry out monitoring, delayed reporting and non-utilization of generated evidence for decision making.

The County Government of Uasin Gishu therefore intends to address the structural and functional weaknesses of monitoring and evaluation in the County by providing a policy framework and institutional arrangement for implementation of an effective monitoring and evaluation system. This will facilitate real time tracking of priority policies, programmes and projects; and ensure harmonized M&E and reporting within the County.

1.3 Justification of the Policy

The constitution of Kenya provides the basis for monitoring and evaluation in the country. The Constitution has provisions on transparency, integrity, access to information and accountability which are tenets of good governance. The main constitutional provisions on M&E and planning are Articles 10, 35, 56, 174, 185, 201, 203, 225, 226, and 227. Monitoring and evaluation is an important element of implementing government initiatives to ensure that transparency, integrity, access to information and accountability principles are embraced in resource allocation and management at all levels of government. Consequently, the government should use monitoring and evaluation as an integral part of managing implementation of government policies, programmes and projects.

Section 47(1) of the County Government Act (2012) requires the Executive Committee to design a performance management plan to evaluate performance of the County public service and implementation of the County policies. Further, Section 108(1) of the Act outlines the responsibilities of devolved levels in preparation of a five-year County integrated development plan (CIDP) with clear goals and objectives, an implementation plan with clear outcomes, provisions for monitoring and evaluation, and clear reporting mechanism.

Sections 7 and 8 of the Intergovernmental Relations Act (2012) establish the National and County Government Coordinating summit with functions including those related to M&E, thus: evaluating the performance of national or County governments and recommending appropriate action; receiving progress reports and providing advice as appropriate; monitoring the implementation of national and County development plans and recommending appropriate action. Other functions include: coordinating and harmonizing the development of county and national government policies; consideration of reports from other intergovernmental forums and other bodies on matters affecting national interest; and consultation and co-operation between the national and county governments.

Public Finance Management Act (2012) outlines the responsibilities of County government regarding management and control of public finance. Section 104(1) states that, subject to the constitution, a County Treasury shall monitor, evaluate and oversee the management of public finances and economic affairs of the County government. This includes the monitoring of the County government's entities to ensure compliance with the Act and effective management of their funds, efficiency and transparency and, in particular, proper accountability for the expenditure of those funds; and reporting regularly to the County assembly on the implementation of the annual County budget. Further, section 126(1) requires the County government to prepare a development plan in accordance with Article 220(2) of the constitution, that includes strategic priorities for the medium term that reflect the County government's priorities and plans; and programmes to be delivered with details for each programme of the strategic priorities to which the programme will contribute, the services or goods to be provided, measurable indicators of performance, and the budget allocated to the programme.

The CGUG, in cognizance of the importance of M&E for implementation of its various plans, has adopted M&E as a management tool to enhance achievement of development targets and promote transparency and accountability in the public sector. Notably, the CGUG has committed to use M&E as a tool to demonstrate results and enhance accountability. Towards this commitment, the County government has commenced on establishing and implementing a CIMES. However, the various efforts are adversely affected by several challenges: fragmented and varying M&E practices, inadequate technical and financial capacities and weak coordination. These challenges are compounded by the fact that though the Constitution of Kenya 2010, PFM Act 2012, County Government Act 2012 and other relevant legislations require M&E to be undertaken, there is no existing appropriate policy framework.

To realize this commitment, the CGUG is developing this policy framework to establish and implement CIMES. The Policy will institute a more coordinated and systematic approach to monitoring and evaluation in the County and will complement other County Government efforts in providing timely and regular information for decision making through tracking of the CIDP and other development plans.

An operational robust CIMES will—

- (a) Strengthen M&E coordination within the County;
- (b) Ensure availability of timely and reliable data;
- (c) Track the implementation of investment programmes as outlined in the CIDP and other County development plans;
- (d) Provide feedback to the County policy formulation, planning, budget allocation and execution processes;
- (e) Build partnerships with stakeholders geared towards desirable outcomes and strategies;
- (f) Feed into the National Integrated Monitoring and Evaluation System (NIMES), even as it addresses the weaknesses highlighted in the situational analysis.

CHAPTER TWO—POLICY OBJECTIVES AND PRINCIPLES

This chapter discusses the objectives and principles of the M&E Policy.

2.1 Policy Strategic Objectives/Purpose

This Policy seeks to provide a framework for establishment of a monitoring and evaluation system in the County to provide tracking systems that determine whether policies, programmes and projects impact the development process, as articulated in the CIDP and other County development plans. It will also establish common structures and standards that govern the application of effective monitoring and evaluation system in the County, thus facilitating realization of maximum development outcomes.

2.1.1 Policy objectives

The CGUG M&E policy seeks to institutionalize M&E in the County in order to enhance implementation of the County government plans towards realization of the County vision. To achieve this, the policy will pursue the following objectives—

- (a) To establish a County Integrated M&E system to track whether policies impact the development process, as planned;
- (b) To promote a culture and practice of M&E for evidence-based decision making in government and non-state actors undertaking public development programmes in Uasin Gishu County;
- (c) To strengthen reporting and enhance accountability for performance in implementation of programmes, policies and projects at County and devolved levels, and enhance standardized reporting at devolved levels;
- (d) To promote use of monitoring and evaluation results through enhanced dissemination, communication and use of M&E findings to enhance implementation of policies, programmes and projects;
- (e) To provide feedback to the County policy, planning, and budget allocation and execution processes, and further build partnerships with stakeholders geared towards desirable outcomes and strategies.
- (f) To provide adequate monitoring and evaluation capacity to facilitate the full operationalization of CIMES for effective tracking and reporting on implementation progress of CIDP.
- (g) To ensure adequate budget is provided for monitoring and evaluation function in the County at all administrative levels;
- (h) To strengthen partnerships and collaborations with stakeholders (development partners, CSOs, private sector, among others) in the county in the establishment and operationalization of CIMES.

2.2 Policy Guiding Principles

This policy outlines a set of principles to be observed in the practice of monitoring and evaluation in the County.

- Transparency and Accountability: The County government will ensure all findings are publicly available unless there are compelling reasons otherwise, all resources utilized for development purposes shall be accounted for and realized results disseminated in formats that are easily accessible to all stakeholders.
- Participation and Inclusion: Involvement of all stakeholders in monitoring activities, and ensure that there are incentives in place for them to engage therein. Stakeholders, and particularly the intended beneficiaries, are consulted in the evaluation, and that the consultations' results are used effectively to enhance the implementation process of programmes/ projects.
- Ownership: A rights-based culture is promoted and entrenched by its inclusion in the value base for all M&E processes whereby the citizens have the opportunity to participate in the CIMES processes.
- Promote Learning: Ensure that good practices and lessons learnt are shared among all stakeholders while providing opportunities for County M&E staff to be trained in effective monitoring and evaluation techniques.
- Operational Effectiveness: The M&E process shall be routine, systematic and regularized, include a robust system built which is resilient that will promote benefits that are clear and the system scale is appropriately given resource availability. Management of the M&E function shall lead to a sustained on-time delivery of excellence and timely reporting of results for early intervention which is an important pillar of this policy.
- Partnerships and collaboration: County government, development partners and its citizens shall collaborate to ensure that all development plans are executed to the benefit of the people of the County.

- Managing for results: Monitoring and evaluation should focus on measuring the results (outputs, outcomes and impacts) of public policies, programmes and projects for target groups.
- Demand-driven: The quality and timeliness of quantitative and qualitative information must respond to the demand. Data producers should ensure that the production cycle is synchronized with the policy and budget cycle and, hence, inform the planning and budget cycle.
- Credibility: Monitoring and evaluation shall be credible and based on reliable data or observations. Monitoring and Evaluation reports shall reflect consistency and dependability in data, findings, judgments, and lessons learnt, with reference to the quality of instruments and procedures and analysis used to collect and interpret information.

To ensure the credibility and usefulness of M&E findings, the M&E practice should observe the following:

- Impartiality and compliance with international standards in data collection, analysis and reporting,
 - Evaluators practice should conform to the code of conduct,
 - Use of realistic and practical techniques and indicators for measurement of results and progress,
 - Due regard for the welfare, beliefs and customs of those involved or affected,
 - Confidentiality on the identity of information providers.
- Mainstreaming: To facilitate tracking of cross cutting issues and related results, the issues (gender, human rights, climate change, among others) will need to be mainstreamed into the Monitoring and Evaluation of projects and programmes.
 - Other specific principles to Monitoring and Evaluation will include:
 - Compliance with national and international best practices;
 - Reliance on data generated by KNBS and other local and international agencies;
 - Adaptability and ease to update;
 - Sustainability; and
 - Subscription to CIMES by all the stakeholders.

Table 1 shows specific principles that will guide monitoring and evaluation in the County.

CHAPTER THREE—IMPLEMENTATION OF THE POLICY

This chapter presents the resources required for Monitoring and Evaluation and operationalization of CIMES. Specifically, it highlights Tools and Standards for M&E, Capacity Development, Compliance with Policy Requirements, and Policy Review.

3.1 Introduction

The County will rally the leadership to support actualization of CIMES by being the champions and users of the system. To ensure M&E receives full attention from all County staff involved in implementation and reporting, the M&E targets and indicators will be linked directly to the performance management system of the County, including Performance Contracts and Performance Appraisal System. The County directors will therefore be required to work closely with the CMED to ensure that the M&E function is given adequate attention within the County performance management process.

3.1.1 Monitoring

This is a process of collecting, analyzing and reporting data on policies, programmes or projects inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes and impacts in order to track whether actual investment results are being achieved. This policy will guide the County to monitor activities in the implementation of the County development plans to provide the leadership, managers, decision makers and other stakeholders with timely implementation feedback.

The monitoring strategy will entail—

- (a) Tracking implementation of County policies, programmes and projects identified in the development plans;
- (b) Monitoring of programmes and projects at the institutional, administrative and political levels to show achievements of outputs and outcomes in the development plans;
- (c) Continuous monitoring of programmes and projects and reports generated on a quarterly basis to inform timely decision making;
- (d) Generation and compilation of County Annual Progress Report for policy making.

3.1.2 Evaluations

This is a systematic and objective assessment of an ongoing or completed project, programme or policy on its design, implementation and results. It determines the relevance and fulfillment of objectives, efficiency, effectiveness, impact and sustainability. Evaluation is linked to monitoring as it tells managers whether project/programme activities are moving toward or away from project/programme objective and why. It therefore provides lessons learnt and recommendations for future improvements.

The county will conduct formative and summative evaluations for its policies, programmes and projects with an aim of improving achievement of anticipated results. The county evaluation strategy will include—

- (a) Assessment of the outcomes and impact of policies, programmes and projects to ensure effective service delivery;
- (b) Provision of evidence-based information that is independent, credible, reliable, and useful for timely decision-making processes;
- (c) Linkage to the performance management system;
- (d) Strengthen partnerships and collaborations involving the County Government, National Government and non-state actors;
- (e) Commission of reviews, mid-term & end term evaluations, and impact evaluations of programmes/projects.

The policy recommends the following evaluations—

- (a) Programme/Project Evaluations – Baseline, Mid-term and End-term Evaluations will be conducted on policies, programmes and projects in the County;
- (b) Impact Evaluations – Policies, programmes and projects will be subjected to impact evaluation.
- (c) Process and Performance Evaluations – Mandatory reviews and evaluations of institutional working mechanisms and procedures, and how they affect implementation of policies, programmes and projects will be conducted to generate new knowledge for lesson learning and management.
- (d) Special Reviews – Reviews for specific interventions will be conducted at the request of County Assembly and County Executive Committee.

3.1.3 Standards and Tools

Some of the M&E tools, methods and approaches include performance indicators, M&E plan, M&E Framework, formal surveys, Rapid appraisal methods, Participatory methods, Public Expenditure Tracking Surveys (PETS), Cost-benefit and cost-effectiveness analysis and Impact evaluations. The choice of an appropriate tool depends on context and a range of considerations.

Performance Indicators – These are measures of inputs, processes, outputs, outcomes, and impacts for policies, programmes and projects. The indicators will track progress, demonstrate results, and enable managers take corrective action. Each of the sectors/departments and other County government agencies will convene their respective stakeholders (state and non-state actors) meetings to identify and develop sector-specific indicators. This will be done in collaboration with the CMED. CMED will then come up with County indicators to be monitored.

M&E Plan – The CMED will coordinate development of a costed County M&E Plan that will show the policies, programmes and projects that will be tracked and assessed in a financial year. The Plan will show indicators, baseline data and targets, and reviews and evaluations to be undertaken.

M&E Framework – The CMED will coordinate development of M&E framework that presents impact, effect, output and activities along with verifiable indicators, means of verifications and assumption. The framework provides the basis for M&E needs and purposes.

Formal Surveys – These will be used to collect standardized information from a carefully selected sample of people or households. Surveys usually collect comparable information for a relatively large number of people in particular target groups. Citizen report cards, client satisfaction or service delivery surveys will be promoted in the County.

Rapid Appraisals – These are less structured data collection methods aimed at supplying needed information in a timely and cost-effective manner. They are quick, low-cost and involve key informant interviews, community group interviews, focus group discussions and mini-surveys.

Public Expenditure Tracking Surveys (PETS) – These will track the flow of public funds and determine the extent to which resources actually reach the target groups. The surveys will examine the manner, amount, and timing of releases of resources to different levels of service delivery units. PETS are often implemented as part of larger service delivery and facility surveys which focus on the quality of service, characteristics of the facilities, their management, incentive structures, among others.

Cost-Benefit and Cost-Effectiveness Analysis – These are tools for assessing whether or not the costs of an activity can be justified by the outcomes and impacts. Cost-benefit analysis measures both inputs and outputs in monetary terms. Cost-effectiveness analysis estimates inputs in monetary terms and outcomes in non-monetary quantitative terms (such as improvements in student reading scores).

Impact Evaluation – A systematic identification of the effects whether positive or negative, intended or not, on individual households, institutions, and the environment caused by a given development activity such as a program or project. Impact evaluation brings out the extent to which activities reach the poor and the magnitude of their effects on people's welfare. Impact evaluations can range from large scale sample surveys in which project populations and control groups are compared before and after, and possibly at several points during program intervention; to small-scale rapid assessment and participatory appraisals where estimates of impact are obtained from combining group interviews, key informants, case studies and available secondary data.

Results Based M&E Framework – Effective monitoring and evaluation is based on a clear, logical pathway of results, in which results at one level lead to results at the next level. Results from one level flow towards the next level, leading to the achievement of the overall goal. If there are gaps in the logic, the pathway will not flow towards the required results. The major levels are; Inputs, Outputs (including processes), Outcomes and Impacts.

3.2 Capacity Development

Capacity development will be an integral part of CIMES because structured and institutionalized Monitoring and Evaluation practice will enhance service delivery in the County. The financial and technical capacities for M&E will be developed to meet the current challenges, with cross-cutting capacity issues also accorded special consideration. These will include; creating an enabling environment for M&E, rationalization of key monitoring reports and building County capacity for M&E.

The County will set aside adequate financial and human resources for County M&E activities for effective monitoring and evaluation. This will be done at the projects/planning stage. The required financial and human resources for M&E will be considered within the overall costs of delivering the agreed results and not as additional costs.

3.2.1 Financial Resources for Monitoring and Evaluation

Financial resources for M&E will be allocated as part of programme based budget. The County will strive to build partnerships with development partners to finance M&E related activities. The County will therefore ensure at least one per cent of the development budget is provided for M&E activities under the department of Economic Planning. Each department is required under this policy to set aside adequate funds to undertake routine M&E within their programmes and projects budget.

3.2.2 Technical Capacity

The human resources required for M&E activities will be developed by assigning adequate staff to the M&E function. Their capacities will also be strengthened by providing the necessary M&E training, tools and equipment. For the purpose of this policy, operationalizing CIMES will involve provision of the following items:

- Capacity building of technical officers and M&E champions;
- Each department will be required to re-designate an M&E officer who will work in liaison with CMED;
- Sensitization of the County Assembly, and the County Executive;
- Commissioning and training for the CIMES computerization (e-CIMES), to manage data entry, aggregation and reporting.

3.3 Compliance with Policy Requirement

A fully operational M&E system will assist in institutionalizing result-based management reforms even as it re-orientes County public service and agencies towards the production of tangible results and value for money. Even though the policy functions as a quasi-enforcement mechanism, the sustainability of the M&E system will be ensured by a system of incentives. The benefits will be reflected at the individual level, as departments and sub-county performance will be linked to individual performance appraisal and, ultimately to wage reform. In the final analysis therefore, the CIMES will become an incentive-based reporting system both at institutional and individual levels, thus guaranteeing its sustainability.

The policy will therefore, be enforced through incentives, benefits and sanctions on adherence to the set standards in undertaking M&E in the county. The County M&E Committee (CoMEC) will ensure compliance through rewards/incentives and sanctions.

3.3.1 Rewards

This Policy recognizes the important role of incentives in the implementation of M&E as a way to raising awareness of the usefulness of M&E, and the utilization of M&E information. The CoMEC will apply incentives to appreciate M&E efforts and innovations. Some of the incentives include—

- (a) Public recognition and/or payment of 13th salary for County departments that conduct and use M&E;
- (b) Use of M&E experience as a criterion for staff promotion, employee of the year award, County honours/awards and letters of commendation;
- (c) Additional funding incentives to County departments that conduct effective M&E; and
- (d) Budgetary incentives for high-performing programmes/projects.

3.3.2 Sanctions

The Policy recommends sanctions that will be directed to County departments and agencies, and individual officers that may include—

- (a) Financial penalties (budgetary and salary cuts or with-holding)
- (b) Name and shame by highlighting adverse M&E information and reports to County Assembly and disseminating widely;
- (c) Enact laws, decrees or regulations to make M&E mandatory;
- (d) Require performance exception reporting where targets are not met, with programme areas explaining poor performance.

The operational procedures and standards introduced in this Policy will be developed by the CoMEC.

3.4 Policy review

The Policy anticipates an evolving M&E environment that requires continuous review of its practices, approach and tools. This will be done after every five years through a participatory process involving all the key stakeholders in the County. This will make the Policy responsive to emerging developments in the practice and approaches of M&E.

CHAPTER FOUR—REPORTING, COMMUNICATION AND KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT

This chapter presents reporting structure that outlines the reporting requirements, dissemination of M&E information and knowledge management.

4.1 Introduction

The M&E reporting is important because it enables the County to check whether implementation of the CIDP and other County plans are on track and allows for corrective actions accordingly; make informed decisions regarding operations, management and service delivery; ensure effective and efficient use of resources; evaluate the impact of a programme/project; and whether new knowledge has emerged that requires strengthening and/or modification to the project management plan.

Information generated from M&E will thus inform planning, budgeting and funding decisions about the overall implementation performance of various programmes/projects outlined in the CIDP. The information will also support policy-formulation, accountability and transparency. The monitoring reports will include programmes and projects implementation reports, and County departmental reports. The evaluation reports will include reports commissioned by the CoMEC, such as the mid and end term review of the CIDP.

4.2 Reporting Requirements

This policy requires state and non-state actors operating within the County to submit timely and accurate progress reports on policies, programmes and projects in line with approved reporting standards, formats and frequency. The CMED will adopt the standard reporting template in line with CIMES guidelines for collection of data from sectors. This will ensure similar and simplified reporting hence eliminate unnecessary reporting burdens and fatigue. Reporting will be at both County and sub-county levels with reports showing performance at both levels.

The reporting on implementation of policies, programmes and projects will be on monthly, quarterly, bi-annual and annual basis. CIMES will therefore generate, on a regular basis, monitoring instruments for feedback to sectors/departments, stakeholders and lower geographic levels from where data will be routinely collected. The main products of the system will be Annual Progress Reports (APR), Mid-term and End-term reports on CIDP or successor policy documents, the Public Expenditure Review (PER) report, and Sub-county and County Annual and Quarterly Monitoring and Evaluation Reports. Others will include; set of regularly monitored sector indicators and core set of indicators for County monitoring, popular versions of key reports, policy research papers, policy briefs and seminar, analyses of surveys, and quarterly project monitoring reports.

The County reporting timelines will be as follows—

- (a) Departmental monthly programmes and projects implementation reports to be submitted by the 5th day following the end of a month;
- (b) Departmental quarterly programmes and projects implementation reports to be submitted by 15th day of the month following the end of the quarter;
- (c) Quarterly M&E reports to be submitted by the last day of the month following the end of the quarter; and
- (d) Annual M&E reports to be submitted by 30th of August.

The quarterly and annual M&E reports will be forwarded to CMED for consolidation and onward transmission to CoMEC for approval. The CoMEC will then submit the report to CEC for approval before submission to the County Assembly.

To track implementation of its programmes/projects and contribute to the County Annual Progress Report (CAPR) reporting timetable, the County will adopt the following schedule:

- Wards, through WaMEC, will compile their respective reports and submit to the Sub-Counties (and their SCoMECs) by the first day of the next quarter;
- Sub-counties, through the SCoMEC, submit their reports to County M&E Directorate seven days after end of the quarter, following the quarter to which the report is referring;
- Sectors, through the SeMECs, submit their reports to County M&E Directorate fifteen days after end of the quarter, following the quarter to which the report is referring;
- County M&E Directorate thereafter compiles the County Annual Progress Report (CAPR) for onward submission to ToC and CoMEC 25 days after end of the quarter; and
- CoMEC will release the report for sharing and dissemination after review.

4.3 Dissemination of M&E information

The County will develop an effective communication strategy that will enable the County M&E Directorate share M&E information released by CoMEC with the County citizens and key stakeholders as required by the Constitution. In addition, disseminating these reports will improve programme/project implementation, create a sense of ownership amongst citizens, advocate for additional resources, and ensure that County development activities are captured in CIMES. Some of the reports to be disseminated include CAPR, and periodic programmes/projects performance reports.

M&E reports will be disseminated through numerous methods such as written reports, oral presentations, press releases and fact sheets that will reach a wide and varied audience. Other channels will include social and new media platforms, County website; e-mail, text messages and mobile notification messages; and citizen participation fora.

CHAPTER FIVE—COUNTY M&E INSTITUTIONAL STRUCTURE

This chapter highlights the institutional framework to facilitate implementation of CIMES. It specifically presents the CIMES structure in the County, with responsibilities and functions of the major players.

5.1 County M&E Structure

Strong institutional arrangements for coordination, implementation and reporting are fundamental for a functional M&E system. This policy therefore:

- (a) Establishes CIMES as per the CIMES guidelines;
- (b) Establishes a County M&E Directorate (CMED) to coordinate CIMES under the department responsible for Finance and Economic Planning;
- (c) Establishes Service Delivery Unit (SDU) under the Governor's Office to coordinate service delivery that feeds into CIMES;
- (d) Adopts CIMES structures for the County;
- (e) Establishes M&E desk in each County department to coordinate M&E functions within the department;

The structure of the CIMES envisaged in (d) above will encompass institutions from both levels of government, non-state actors (development partners working in the County, private sector and civil society organizations) and the citizens. The structure will comprise committees at the County, sub-county and ward levels. The existing legal structures such as the County Assembly, County Inter-Governmental Forum and the County Citizens Participation Forum will also form part of the CIMES structure. The County M&E Directorate under the Department of Economic Planning will coordinate CIMES. In addition, a service delivery unit (SDU) to be domiciled in the governor's office may be established to support CIMES in monitoring implementation of the governor's priority programmes and projects.

The structure will comprise the County Assembly Committee responsible for Finance and Economic Planning, County Monitoring and Evaluation Committee (CoMEC), Technical Oversight Committee (ToC), and the Sector Monitoring and Evaluation Committee (SeMEC). At the lower levels, there will be a Sub-County M&E Committee (SCoMEC) and Ward M&E Committee. Annex 1 illustrates how the main committees and Fora are involved in CIMES.

5.2 Responsibilities and Functions of the M&E Committees and Stakeholders

The roles and responsibilities of the various committees that constitute CIMES are given as follows.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT STUDY REPORT
FOR THE PROPOSED KWALE MINERAL SANDS OPERATION
PROJECT, KWALE COUNTY

PURSUANT to Regulation 21 of the Environmental Management and Co-ordination (Impact Assessment and Audit) Regulations, 2003, the National Environment Management Authority (NEMA) has received an Environmental Impact Assessment Study Report for the above proposed project.

The Base Titanium Limited, proposes to undertake mining activities on the "North Dune" Resource Area in Kwale County.

The following are the anticipated impacts and proposed mitigation measures:

Possible Impacts	Mitigation Measures
Impacts to soils	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mine in blocks to allow for a reduction in the volume of vegetation to be cleared and stripped, confining mining activities to active mine blocks. Vegetate topsoil stockpiles expected to remain stockpiled for more than three months, with indigenous grass species, especially creepers. Disturbance areas to be stripped progressively to reduce erosion and sediment generation, and utilize topsoil as soon as possible for rehabilitation. Erosion on steep slopes is to be controlled through revegetation and shade netting, placed at right angles to erosion gullies and gully repair.
Surface and groundwater resources Contamination	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Construction of settlement ponds, gabions and artificial wetlands, to manage turbidity and suspended solids as a result of storm water runoff. Reuse of wastewater from hydraulic process to reduce ex-situ discharge. Erection of silt traps downstream of activity areas, on specific streams of most value to the communities or in recharging the main rivers. Continuation with water quality monitoring activities at identified sites, and any other sites that will be noted to be at significant risk to contamination.
Water supply to communities and flora	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Water abstraction is only seen as a secondary water source. Co-disposal will deliver sufficient water for operational needs. Should additional make up water be required for operational needs, water abstraction will meet or be below current permitting needs. Any localised effects resulting from groundwater drawdown on community boreholes and wells can be mitigated by providing an alternative source of water, or by deepening a shallow well.
Noise and vibration from mining operations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> All households within the North Dune will be resettled as per the RAP prepared by Base. Resettlement is also assumed within the buffer zones identified Where the heavy equipment causing vibrations are to be used close to settlements, the households will be sensitized prior to such activities Night time activity (specifically heavy machinery use) to be minimized where possible, especially for activities conducted close to mining area perimeter. Construction of berms/ walls along mining area perimeter to act as a noise screen, directional 'smart' reverse alarms to be utilized on mining equipment.
Exposure of workers and communities to dust fallout and PM10 emissions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mitigations to be implemented include the application of wind breaks around rehabilitation areas/ topsoil stockpiles/ vegetation and soil stripping areas; use of water sprays at rehabilitated open areas, internal roads and at vegetation and soil stripping areas. Cleared areas to be rehabilitated as soon as it is feasible and

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> stockpiles to be vegetated; Areas to be cleared as close to the time of mining as possible; speed limits to be enforced across the site. Resettlement of all affected households within the Project area. Resettlement is also assumed within the buffer zones identified for air quality impacts.
Impacts on Fauna and flora (Loss of species and reduction in surface vegetation cover/ habitat)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Maintain all indigenous tree and shrub species in the established nursery to replant during rehabilitation. All of the critical habitats and No Go environmental sensitive areas within the mining area and on its outer fringes – as indicated in Figure 5.14 of the main ESIA document– are to be avoided. Maintain a buffer of preferably 100 m around edges of forest patches and any wetlands that do not fall within the mining resource area, and ensure no runoff from mining infrastructure/area gets into any rivers/wetlands/swamps/pans, without being cleaned (establish silt traps where necessary). Avoid less disturbed wooded grassland thickets as far as possible, especially where threatened species have been confirmed, or where such woodland patches are in close proximity of wetland areas. Avoid wetland habitats as far as possible, especially areas around springs. Avoid clearing indigenous trees with above >50 cm diameter and/or a height over 8 m where such trees fall outside the mineral resource areas Relocate individuals of threatened tree species as far as this can be done with success (e.g. Ficus faulknerae). Areas of high conservation significance in proximity, but outside the physical mining footprint, need to be clearly demarcated with appropriate barriers and signage to ensure no further encroachment or disturbance. Upon completion of mining, rehabilitate and restore wetlands and the riverine vegetation. Rehabilitate progressively and as soon as areas are mined out, fully utilising insights gained from the rehabilitation trials.
Risks to safety and health at the workplace	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Base's existing OHS Management System and various OHS Management Plans are fully embedded into the operations, and includes appropriate documentation, procedures, guidelines, standards, risk assessments and monitoring records, with assigned accountabilities and responsibilities. In addition, the OHS Management System undergoes frequent review. Various system elements are audited monthly and identified corrective measures implemented to further improve the system. Also, the operations' Hazard and Operability Study (HAZOP) has been undergoing monthly review.
Loss of housing; Private Land and Orchards; Communal Land and Natural Resources; Businesses; Public Facilities and Services; Breakdown in	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mitigations to be implemented include developing a Resettlement Action Plan (RAP) consistent with national law, international good practice and precedent established in previous RAPs. The RAP will establish programs for livelihood restoration; will be supported via ongoing stakeholder engagement with Affected Persons; will establish a Grievance

Community Networks Structure	and	Mechanism that will become operational prior to the Asset Inventory and Valuations; and will profile potential vulnerable people that form part of the displacement Affected Persons and made special provisions for affected persons.
Restriction Access and Mobility	of • and	Base will coordinate with Kwale County for the removal of existing roads, on condition that Base will provide replacement roads or access paths to households. The routing, design and maintenance requirements for new roads will be agreed between Base and relevant authorities. Base will show that any new roads will retain, and ideally, improve household mobility & accessibility between communities. Public roads will remain as public and Base will avoid, to the maximum extent possible the conversion of existing public roads to mine roads. Where conversation is needed, Base will construct alternative public roads.
Employment Labor and Work Seeker Influx	and •	Base will update the LRIMP to cover the North Dune operations as well as neighbouring communities. The LRIMP will establish preferential employment rules based on differing priority areas. Preferential employment targets will also be established for women and young men. The LRIMP will be amended to establish local training and skill development programmes by Base (or third party contractors) in advance of the mobilisation of the EPC Contractor to enable local people to be recruited. The LRIMP will extend all Fair Treatment Principles, any existing labour law requirements, and IFC or ILO standards.
Local economic development and CSI spend	content, •	Local supplier development to be promoted via existing Base Procurement Plans or Local Content Plan / Plan, and existing plans will focus on supporting and developing existing small, medium enterprises in the local communities, and incorporation of these SMMEs in the procurement process. • Base will expand and amend any existing CSI initiatives to include communities that are directly or indirectly affected by the North Dune operations. • Base will make specialist provision for the establishment of CSI initiatives that support vulnerable households and women in particular.
Community health, safety and security	•	Base's Health and Safety Department to review the community health, safety, and security risks associated with the North Dune mining operations, and amend any existing Health and Safety Plans to ensure effective coverage of the North Dune mining operations and any affected communities. • Base to ensure that there is sufficient resourcing (emergency staff, equipment, and funds) to expand current H&S plans to cover the North Dune mining operations and affected communities. The Traffic Management Plan will be updated, taking into consideration the surrounding North Dune communities.
