46. The nominee stated that he was aware of the challenges that the fishing industry was facing and the potential that fishing industry has in the economy of the country. He stated therefore that he would ensure proper use of Kenyan waters for economic growth given that Kenya has many areas that are filled with water bodies such as Lakes (Victoria, Turkana, Baringo and Naivasha).

Potential of Blue Economy in the Country

47. The nominee was aware of the huge potential areas for fish exploitation and other than lakes, Kenya is also blessed to be one of the countries that is bordered by an ocean (Indian Ocean) which has a very big potential. He noted that in Kenya, exploitation of fish is below average given that the country provides only 150,000 Metric tonnes against a demand of 600,000 tonnes. This shows that there is a big gap to fill. He noted that one of the biggest contributors to this gap was the lack of proper technology.
48. In view of this, the nominee promised the Committee that he would embark on ensuring that the technology is improved. He informed the Committee that the country had the potential of reaching a production of 1 million tonnes of production against the 150,000 that is currently being produced.

The nominee informed the Committee that the Authority was functional with twelve Board Members but lacked capacity to undertake its mandate due among other reasons lack of adequate financial allocation. The Authority was operating with only one staff under secondment and one vehicle to move from one station to the other.

Consumption of fish from China Versus Kenyan fish in the Country

51. The nominee informed the Committee that the country was faced by insufficient local fish supply to satisfy the market, and hence imports from China fill the gap that the country is facing. The nominee further promised the Committee to invest more on fishing technology.
52. The Committee was informed that fish consumption in the country was improving significantly, tilapia being the most consumed type of fish however, there are many other varieties of fish that are not being exploited which need to be promoted by the Authority.

Performance of Kenya Fish Marketing Authority

53. He informed the Committee that the government was putting in place laws and regulations to enable small scale fishermen transition into commercial and industrial growers. However, there was need to support the Authority with a huge budget for improved performance and more impact in the country. He stated that the Authority was surviving on grants which has made its functionality very low.

Determination of Fish Stocks in the Country

General and Sector Specific Questions to the Nominee

Nominees Achievements and application of his knowledge as a Chairperson of the Authority

The nominee informed the Committee that he was brought up in a fishing environment and thus is very familiar with fishing and the activities involved with it. He also noted that he is a strong proponent of Blue Economy and that he understands its impact to the country's economy.

The nominee stated that he was aware of the challenges that the fishing industry was facing and the potential that fishing industry has in the economy of the country. He stated therefore that he would ensure proper use of Kenyan waters for economic growth given that Kenya has many areas that are filled with water bodies such as Lakes (Victoria, Turkana, Baringo and Naivasha).

Potential of Blue Economy in the Country

The nominee was aware of the huge potential areas for fish exploitation and other than lakes, Kenya is also blessed to be one of the countries that is bordered by an ocean (Indian Ocean) which has a very big potential. He noted that in Kenya, exploitation of fish is below average given that the country provides only 150,000 Metric tonnes against a demand of 600,000 tonnes. This shows that there is a big gap to fill. He noted that one of the biggest contributors to this gap was the lack of proper technology.

In view of this, the nominee promised the Committee that he would embark on ensuring that the technology is improved. He informed the Committee that the country had the potential of reaching a production of 1 million tonnes of production against the 150,000 that is currently being produced.

The nominee mentioned that he would ensure adequate sensitization of all the relevant stakeholders, put in good technology and use the Management Information Systems to help with proper and quality decision making. The nominee affirmed that he would do all that he could to unlock this potential.

Challenges faced by the Kenya Fish Marketing Authority

The nominee informed the Committee that the Authority was functional with twelve Members of the Board however lacked capacity to undertake its mandate due among other reasons lack of adequate financial allocation. The Authority was operating with only one staff under secondment and one vehicle to move from one station to the other.

Consumption of fish from China Versus Kenyan fish in the Country

The nominee informed the Committee that the country was faced by insufficient local fish supply to satisfy the market, and hence imports from China to fill the gap that the country is facing. The nominee further promised the Committee to invest more on fishing technology once approved. He informed that fish consumption in the country was improving significantly with tilapia being the most consumed type of fish, he noted that there are many other varieties of fish that are not being exploited which need to be promoted by the Authority.

Performance of Kenya Fish Marketing Authority

He informed the Committee that the government was putting in place laws and regulations to enable small scale fishermen transition into commercial and industrial growers. However, there was need to support the Authority with a huge budget for improved performance and more impact in the country. He stated that the Authority was surviving on grants which has made its functionality very low.

Determination of Fish Stocks in the Country

The nominee stated that there are other institutions who handle the fish stocks, however, it important to employ smart technology and innovative solutions to the challenge of getting the fish stocks in the country.
