CHAIRPERSON'S FOREWORD

The Public Petition to amend Article 231(4) of the Constitution regarding the portraits on notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of Kenya was conveyed to the House by the Speaker of the National Assembly on 27th August, 2015 and was committed to the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade and pursuant to provisions of Standing Order 227(1) and the Petition to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012. The petition was dated 24th August, 2015 and signed by seven (7) petitioners.

The prayers of the petition was that the National Assembly, through the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade:

1. immediately commences the process of amending Article 231 of the Constitution by deleting clause 4; and
2. amends section 22 of the Central Bank of Kenya Act, Cap 491 to either –
 - i. mandate the Central Bank of Kenya to determine the portraits, symbols or images to appear on the front face of coins and notes issued by the Bank; or
 - ii. specifically provide that the front part of notes and coins shall bear the portrait of the First President of the Republic of Kenya whereas the rear side shall bear symbols, portraits of images that shall be determined by the Central Bank of Kenya.

In considering the petition, the Committee invited and held a meeting with the representative of the petitioners, Mr. Mithamo Muchiri. This report was compiled having incorporated the view of the petitioner.

The Committee wishes to thank the Offices of the Speaker and the Clerk of the National Assembly for the support extended to it in the execution of its mandate.

I take this opportunity to thank all the Members of the Committee for their patience, sacrifice, endurance and hard work during the long sitting hours under tight schedules which enabled us to complete the tasks within the stipulated period.

The Committee wishes to record its appreciation for the services rendered by the staff of the National Assembly attached to the Committee. Their efforts made the work of the Committee and the production of this Report possible.

Finally, it is now my pleasant duty, on behalf of the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade to present this report to the House pursuant to the provisions of Standing Order 227 (2).

Hon. Benjamin Langat, CBS, M.P.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report contains the committee's proceedings during the hearing of the Public Petition to amend Article 231(4) of the Constitution regarding the portraits on notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of Kenya. The petition was conveyed to the House by the Speaker of the National Assembly on 27th August, 2015 and was committed to the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade.

On analysis of the petition, the Committee observed that it generally complies with the Standing Orders and the Petitions to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012.

The Committee further observed that:-

1. The process of printing notes with portraits that depict the face of Kenya is a gradual process; thus the cost will be spread over a wider period of time. Further, the Central Bank of Kenya had already made arrangements of printing new notes that will start circulating this year.
2. The drafters of the Constitution felt it was important to include the Article in the Constitution to avoid change of portraits on the currency every time by a new President who might want his/her portrait to appear on the currency. This will address cost implications.
3. The amendment of Article 231 as stated by the petitioner might bring tribal issues since every community would wish that their forefathers who fought for this country are recognized by their portraits appearing on the Kenyan currency as well.
4. It was important to have portraits that depict the image of the country and to brand Kenya.

1.4.RECOMMENDATION

In response to the Prayers of the Petitioners, the Committee recommends that the status quo be retained and accordingly do not recommend any amendments.

Further, the Committee encourages the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK) to adopt portraits that depict the national image of the country.

2.0. INTRODUCTION

2.1. The Speakers Communication

The Speaker of the National Assembly informed the Honourable Members, that he had received a petition signed by Mr. Mithamo Muchiri, on behalf of seven (7) concerned citizens, regarding the imminent removal of the portrait of Kenya's first President from the face of the country's currency.

The petitioner prayed that the National Assembly amends Article 231 of the Constitution which provides that:

“Notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of Kenya may bear images that depict or symbolise Kenya or an aspect of Kenya but shall not bear the portrait of any individual”.

The petitioners are concerned that the implementation of this Article would occasion the removal of the portrait of the founding President from the face of the Kenyan currency.

The petitioner cited a number of jurisdictions whose currencies have portraits of their founding presidents, as an honour for their distinguished contribution to their countries. They further opposed the huge cost that would be incurred in effecting this change and advised that the same be re-allocated to other development projects.

The petitioners prayed that the National Assembly, through the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning and Trade:-

- i. initiates the process of amending Article 231 of the Constitution by deleting clause 4; and
- ii. amends section 22 of the Central Bank of Kenya Act, Cap 491 so as to provide for symbols, portraits or images to appear on Kenya's currency and the manner in which such symbols, images or portraits would be determined.

Pursuant to the provisions of Standing Order 227(1), the petition stands committed to the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning and Trade for consideration.

2.1. Background Information

Article 119(1) of the Constitution provides that every person has a right to petition Parliament to consider any matter within its authority, including enacting, amending or repealing any legislation. This Particular provision is operationalized by the Petition to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012 and Standing Orders 219 and 220.

The Public Petition to amend Article 231(4) of the Constitution regarding the portraits on notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of Kenya was conveyed to the House by the Speaker of the National Assembly on 27th August, 2015 on behalf of seven (7) concerned citizens. Pursuant to provisions of Standing Order 227(1) and the Petition to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012 the petition was committed to the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade. The Committee considered the petition pursuant to the provisions of Standing Order 227.

The petition

The petitioner on behalf of the other 7 concerned citizens, wished to draw the attention of the House to the following:

1. THAT, Article 231 (2) of the Constitution stipulates that the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK) shall, among other functions, issue notes and coins as legal tender for the country;
2. THAT, Kenya's currency bears the portrait of the founding president of Kenya, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, in honour of his unarguable contribution as the founding father of the nation;
3. THAT, this practice is also replicated in a number of leading world economies and jurisdictions like the United States of America, India, Republic of South Africa and China, which have portraits of their founding fathers on their currencies;
4. THAT, by providing that notes and coins issued by CBK may bear images that depict or symbolize Kenya or an aspect of Kenya but shall not bear the portrait of any individual, Article 231(4) of the Constitution seeks to remove the portrait of the first president of Kenya;

5. THAT, the move has huge cost implications as this change is likely to load the taxpayers unnecessary financial burden, while a saving on such could easily be re-directed and utilized for national development;
6. THAT, in most jurisdictions, such mundane details, in regard to the portraits, images or symbols to appear on currencies are provided for in national legislation and not in the Constitution;
7. FURTHER, that the selection of symbols and images to be put on coins and notes may generate unnecessary political tension due to country's political diversity;
8. THAT, the matter in respect of which this petition is made is not pending before any court of law or constitutional body.

The Petitioners therefore prayed that, Parliament, through the Departmental Committee on Finance, Planning & Trade:-

1. Immediately commences the process of amending Article 231 of the Constitution by deleting clause 4; and
2. Amends section 22 of the Central Bank of Kenya Act, Cap 491 to either –
 - i. Mandate the Central Bank of Kenya to determine the portraits, symbols or images to appear on the front face of coins and notes issued by the Bank; or
 - ii. Specifically provide that the front part of notes and coins shall bear the portrait of the First President of the Republic of Kenya whereas the rear side shall bear symbols, portraits of images that shall be determined by the Central Bank of Kenya.

3.0.SUBMISSIONS AND EVIDENCE

3.1.Mr. Mithamo Muchiri, Petitioner

Having been seized of the Petition, the Committee invited the petitioner, Mithamo Muchiri for a briefing session on 28th January, 2016. During the meeting, the petitioner informed the Committee as follows:-

1. Article 231 (2) of the Constitution stipulates that the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK) shall, among other functions, issue notes and coins as legal tender for the Country;
2. Kenya's currency bears the portrait of the founding President of Kenya Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, in honour of his unarguable contribution as the founding father of the nation;
3. The practice is also replicated in a number of leading world economies and jurisdictions like the United States of America, India, the Republic of South Africa and China, which have portraits of their founding fathers on their currencies;
4. By providing that notes and coins issued by the CBK may bear images that depict or symbolize Kenya but shall not bear the portrait of any individual, Article 231 (4) of the Constitution seeks to remove the portrait the first President of Kenya;
5. The move has a huge cost implication as this change is likely to load the taxpayers with unnecessary financial burden, while a saving on such could easily be redirected and utilized for national development;
6. In most jurisdictions, such mundane details in regard to the portrait, images or symbols to appear on currencies are provided for in national legislation and not in the Constitution;
7. Selection of symbols and images to be put on coins and notes may generate unnecessary political tensions due to the country's political diversity.

3.2. Legislative provisions regarding the portraits on notes and coins

Article 231 (4) of the Constitution of Kenya 2010 provides that:

"Notes and coins issued by the Central Bank of Kenya may bear images that depict or symbolise Kenya or an aspect of Kenya but shall not bear the portrait of any individual".

Section 22 (2) the Central Bank of Kenya Act, Cap 491 provides that:

"The denominations, inscriptions, forms, material and other characteristics of the notes and coins issued by the Bank shall be determined by the Bank in consultation with the Minister, and shall be notified in the Gazette and in other media of public information likely to bring them to the attention of the public".

4.0. COMMITTEE OBSERVATIONS

Upon analyzing the petition and through interaction with the Petitioner, the Committee made the following observations:-

1. On the cost, the process of printing notes with portraits that depict the face of Kenya was not going to be an overnight but gradual process, hence the cost will not be an issue. Further, the CBK had already made arrangements for printing new notes that will start circulating this year.
2. The drafters of the Constitution felt it was important to include Article 231 in the Constitution to avoid change of portraits on the currency every time by a new President who might want his or her portrait to appear on the currency. This will address cost implications.
3. The amendment of Article 231 as stated by the petitioner might bring tribal issues, since every community would wish that their forefathers who fought for this country are recognized by their portraits appearing on the Kenyan currency as well.
4. It was important to have portraits that depict the image of the country and to brand Kenya.

5.0. COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS

In response to the Prayers of the Petitioners, the Committee recommends that the status quo be retained and accordingly do not recommend any amendments.

Further, the Committee encourages the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK) to adopt portraits that depict the national image of the country.
